We first tried ChannalBAC cushion back in 2008 installing them on one unit after hear about them from one of our sister papers. From the first plate we placed on the cylinder I could tell a noticeable difference. When removing the cushion there was a noticeable tackiness that helps to hold down the plate greatly helping in reducing smutting. After testing them for several week we were very pleased with the results and start replacing our standard cushion with ChannalBAC's. In the summer of 2009 we reduce our web size and had replace all of our cushion and without any hesitation we place our order with Controlled Displacement for replacement cushions.
